08/16/05 JRF	Legal research and analysis re: whether a present lack of subject matter jurisdiction by the federal court could be cured by subsequent action by the secretary of Interior, concluding that subject matter jurisdiction is determined by the state of affairs in existence at the time suit is filed, not affected by subsequent developments, studying case authority holding that jurisdiction is exclusively determined at the outset of the suit without reference to later events;	1.50 hrs 180 /hr	270.00
08/16/05 JRF	Evaluate legal options available to Lesnoi, assessing whether to pursue a motion to dismiss for lack of subject matter jurisdiction, or else simply waiting out a ruling by the Secretary to see if Stratman files a new suit, formulating possible legal strategy of waiting to move to dismiss for lack of subject matter jurisdiction
	[REDACTED]
08/16/05 JRF	Telephone conversation with C. Pagano re: explored the options of moving to dismiss now, or waiting to move to dismiss until after the Secretary rules, discussing the ups and downs of the two alternative approaches;	.60 hrs 180 /hr	108.00

08/17/05 JRF	Study the briefing initially filed by the Dept. of Justice and by Omar Stratman on the issue of the court staying the 2002 case, researching case authorities cited by the government and evaluating the main case mentioned by Bruce Landon, assessing how the rule pertaining to the doctrine of primary jurisdiction could apply with respect to the dismissal rather than the stay of the 1976 case but determining that the rule does not apply to the 2002 case since no order of referral was entered therein, instead concluding that the doctrine of ripeness applies, such that the federal court lacks subject matter jurisdiction over Stratman's unripen claim;	.40 hrs 180 /hr	72.00
